J. R. STAUFFER DIES AGED 74.

Had Been Ill for About Ten Days From Acute Indigestion.

WAS PROMINENT AS FINANCIER.

Coke and Coal Operator and a Man Beloved in Scotland in the Up-building of Which He Was Conspicuous—Interests Were Varied.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTSBURGH, July 14.—Joseph R. Stauffer, one of the best known financiers of Western Pennsylvania, one of the foremost builders of Scotland, a modest, unassuming, kindly gentleman, with friends of all ages and conditions, died at his country home, "Zephyr Glen," near town, at 1:15 this morning. He was born in 1836 and was a clean, regular, active life, brought him up until Saturday a week ago, one of the most active men in mind and body in this section. Then an attack of acute indigestion set upon him. From the start the physicians had very grave fears of the outcome. Everything that medical science and affection could suggest was done, and the patient made a wonderful fight to retain his life. His body was quiet, peaceful and painless and his bedside was surrounded by all the members of the family.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence in the country near town at 4 o'clock tomorrow (Friday) afternoon and all relatives and friends are invited to be present. The interment following will be private at the Scottsdale Cemetery. Rev. W. G. Russell, pastor of the Baptist Church of which the deceased was a member, and Dr. Leroy Stephens of Lewisburg, an old friend, will have charge.

Mr. Stauffer was actively connected with about 30 corporations and firms of Western Pennsylvania and some of them elsewhere. He was the founder and President of the Scottsdale Bank, was First Vice President of the First National Bank of Connelville, a director in the Fayette City and Trust Company of Uniontown, a director in the First National Bank of Mt. Pleasant, and the First National Bank of Vanderburg. He owned large coal interests in Somerset county and had just turned in $100,000 interests at West Newton to the consolidated U. S. Railroad and Coal Company, the big heating merger. His life was made up of about $200,000, much of it taken at the new limit, his clean, active life making him an excellent risk in the eyes of the companies. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Lupton and Royal Arcanum. He was a prominent and active member of the First Baptist Church and active in good works.

Joseph R. Stauffer, son of John M. and Katherine (Sherrick) Stauffer, was born in Fayette county, Pa., June 29, 1836. He attended the common schools and then established himself in the mercantile business in Mt. Pleasant, gradually extending his interests to coal, coke, banking and the iron and steel business. With his brother Abraham K. Stauffer, he began to operate coal mines and make coke on the old home farm near Scottsdale and for 37 years the name of J. R. Stauffer & Company has been identified with the coke business. He was also identified with Stauffer & Wilcox, Home and Dexter, the two coke plants in which he was most interested, one located near Scottsdale.

Mainly it was to the banking business that his attention was most given. In 1882 he joined with the late Peter S. Loucks and established the Scottsdale Bank, a private financial institution. The successful partnership existed for more than 23 years and Mr. Stauffer in 1906 purchased the entire interest of the estate of P. S. Loucks and continued the bank as the sole owner, with capital and surplus of over $200,000, and total assets over $1,000,000. The iron and steel business attracted him in 1887 and he with other Scottsdale men most successfully developed the Scottsdale Iron & Steel Company, by the expert management of Robert Schemm. In 1901 the iron and steel business was sold to the United States Steel Corporation. Besides being president of the Scottsdale Bank Mr. Stauffer was elected the Vice President of the First National Bank of Connelville and was a director and stockholder in a number of banks and trust companies of Fayette, Westmoreland and Somerset counties. Mr. Stauffer was a man of great force of character, alert and alive to progress, and handled the great details and cares of his interests with close personal attention. He was a man of great activity, and at the same time of a very plain, unostentatious and careful life.

Mr. Stauffer married Miss Ann Eliza Freed on December 18, 1858. Mrs. Stauffer was born in Fayette county, February 21, 1842 and died August 27, 1901. She was a daughter of John and Frances Robinson Freed. The following children, all living, were born to the couple: John M. Stauffer, a banker and coal operator, whose time has for the last few years been largely given to the development of the Indian Creek Valley railroad. He is married to Frances, a daughter of George R. and Isabel Warren Scott of Westmoreland county. Eva, who is the wife of Fred L. Brown, a manufacturer of Scottsdale; Fannie, wife of Andrew S. Kelster, an official of the Pennsylvania railroad, of Pittsburgh; Walter Freed Stauffer, married to Nellie P. Hill, daughter of Mrs. Emma Long Hill and the late John D. Hill; Walter F. Stauffer is largely interested in banking and manufacturing interests; DeWitt Stauffer, interested in the coal and coke business, and living at home. Joseph R. Stauffer was a thirty-second degree Mason and so are the three sons, and all are affiliated closely with the First Baptist Church of Scottsdale. Mr. Stauffer resided during the winter months in his fine residence at Chestnut and Mulberry streets, Scottsdale, and the summer was usually spent at "Zephyr Glen," the beautiful summer home east of Scottsdale, and where he was taken sick. While identified with the life and business of Scottsdale, Mr. Stauffer never relinquished his residence in Upper Tyrone township, and always voted there and attended perhaps every election held there. He was a Republican always, taking a keen interest in political matters but would never consent to hold any office.

AN OPTION GIVEN ON CHURCH SITE.

Presbyterian Congregation Will Sell Property for $66,000.

THE TRUSTEES ARE EMPOWERED

To Grant a Four Months' Option at That Figure Provided the Purchaser Will Erect Business Block on the Site—Would Be Record Price.

A record price for Connelville property was set last night when the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church agreed to sell its main street property for $66,000, or $1,000 per foot front. The prospective purchasers are known only to the trustees of the church and are keeping well in the background. If the deal is consummated it will be the highest figure ever received for real estate in the borough.

The congregation placed the matter in the hands of the trustees, giving them authority to execute a four months' option to the prospective buyers. The persons desiring the property are said to have offered $60,000.

The meeting last evening was a lively one. For years the sale of the property has been a burning issue among the members of the congregation, which has been pretty evenly divided between those who believed it would be good policy to dispose of the church building and lot and those who opposed to sell at any price. Those favoring selling after regarding the price that should be asked. Views on the matter ranged from $50,000 to $100,000.

When the proposition to option the property for $60,000 was voted upon the ballot was against the proposition by a small margin. Many contended that at least $75,000 should be asked and one member held out strongly for $100,000. A compromise was made of $66,000, or $1,000 for each foot front was then submitted and carried.

The trustees were authorized to option the property only upon condition that a business block be erected. This was made with a view to blocking the erection of a hotel on the premises. It is stated by those close to the situation, however, that this agreement could not hold.

JONES MILLS SUNDAY.

GRUESOME FIND REVEALS TRAGEDY.

Decomposed and Mutilated Body of Woman Found in Cellar.

SUPPOSED TO BE NOTED SINGER

Belle Elmore Who Disappeared from Home in London Some Months Ago and Whose Death Was Reported by Her Husband, Dr. Crippen.

United Press Telegram.

LONDON, July 14.—Scotland Yard detectives are today hunting Dr. Hawley Crippen, the American dentist who disappeared Saturday. The body of his supposed wife, formerly Bella Elmore, a noted singer, was found buried in the cellar of Crippen's home at Hill Drop Crescent, on the outskirts of London.

It was officially announced today that Crippen is charged with murder and mutilation of the body. It is believed he fled with another woman, known as Mrs. Crippen.

The singer has not been seen since last February, when her husband announced that she had gone to the Continent. Later a notice appeared in the papers that she had died abroad. The second Mrs. Crippen then appeared.

The decomposed body found in the cellar of the home has not yet been positively identified but it is firmly believed to be that of the singer.

The dead woman was found in a small room at the rear of the house, and was found in a state of decomposition. The body was found in a state of decomposition.

When she left Philadelphia it was with the avowed intention of returning to Poland and claiming her title as the Duchess Mankowski.

Little is known of her efforts to re-establish her title in Poland. She kept an expensive establishment in London. The finding of the body has resulted in a suspicion by the neighbors that the death advertisement was a fake.

The police and an undertaker took two coffins to the Crippen house this morning to facilitate the handling of the mutilated and decomposed body.

The police deny the rumor that any more startling discoveries have been made and they are concealing the latest discoveries in an effort to make an arrest. They declare that positive identification of the body at present is impossible. They feel quite positive, however, that the body is that of Mrs. Crippen. The head is crushed to a jelly and the entire corpse was hacked and jabbed through with a knife.

Your Greatest Opportunity of Saving Money Begins

Friday, July 15th, at 9 A. M.

After eight successful business years in Connellsville we have decided to quit the depart- ment store business, and we resort to drastic measures to dispose of our entire tremendous stock in as short a time as possible. We are satisfied that we have served the people of Con- nellsville and vicinity well and faithfully in the past, and assure our many friends and patrons that we will continue to do so as long as we remain here.

There are few, if any, firms better known throughout Fayette county than MACE & CO., and you can buy here during this sale with the absolute assurance that we will never deviate from our integrity and square dealing.

With our past record of square dealing with you, you can place confidence in us and buy here during this sale whatever goods you may consume in the next year.

This entire stock was selected for legitimate selling purposes. They are goods you will have to buy sooner or later and pay more money for. Not a lot of goods purchased from other stores accumulations or for sale purposes. We are not quoting make-believe prices or making fictitious claims to attract and deceive you. BUT WE PRAY TO YOU FAITHFULLY, to help us in our determined undertaking in disposing of this mammoth stock.

CHAPTER II.

Senior Portol, When Orme answered the knock at the door a singular young man stood at the threshold. He was short, wiry, and very dark. His nose was long and complacently tilted at the end. His eyes were small and very black. His mouth was a wide, uncertain slit. In his hand he carried a light cane and a silk hat of the flat-blinded French type. And he wore a gray sack suit, pressed and creased with painful exactness.

"Come in, Senior Portol," said Orme, motioning toward a chair. The little man entered, with short, rapid steps. He drew from his pocket a clean pocket handkerchief, which he unfolded and spread out on the surface of the table. Upon the handkerchief he carefully placed his hat and then, after an ineffectual effort to make it stand against the table edge, laid his cane on the floor.

Not until all this ceremony had been completed did he appear to notice Orme. But now he turned, winking his face into a smile and extending his hand, which Orme took rather dubiously—it was supple and moist.

"Oh, this is Mr. Orme, is it not?" "Yes," said Orme, freeing himself from the unpleasant handshake.

"Mr. Robert Orme?" "Yes, that is my name. What can I do for you?"

For a moment Senior Portol appeared to hover like a timid bird; then he seated himself on the edge of a chair, only the tips of his toes touching the floor. His eyes danced brightly.

"To begin with, Mr. Orme," he said, "I am charmed to meet you—very charmed." He rolled his "e's" after a fashion that need not be reproduced. "And in the second place," he continued, "while actually I am a foreigner in your dear country, I regard myself as an in-trick one of your nation. I came here when a boy, and was educated at your great University of Princeton."

"You are a Portuguese—I infer from your name," said Orme. "Oh, dear, no! Oh, no, no, no!" exclaimed Senior Portol, tapping the floor nervously with his toes. "My country he freed himself from the Portuguese yoke many and many a year ago. I am a South American, Mr. Orme—one of the poor relations of your great country." Again the widened smile. Then he suddenly became grave, and leaned forward, his hands on his knees. "But this is not the business of our meeting, Mr. Orme."

"Not?" inquired Orme. "No, my dear sir. I have come to ask of you about the five-dollar bill which you received in the hat shop this afternoon." He peered anxiously. "You still have it? You have not spent it?"

"A marked bill, was it not?" "Yes, yes. Where is it, my dear sir, where is it?"

"Written across the face of it were the words, 'Remember person you paid this to.'"

"Oh, yes, yes." "And on the back of it—"

"On the back of it!" gasped the little man. "Was a curious cryptogram."

"Do not torture me!" exclaimed Senior Portol. "Have you got it?" His fingers worked nervously.

"Yes," said Orme slowly, "I still have it."

Senior Portol hastily took a fresh five-dollar bill from his pocket. "See," he said, jumping to the floor, "here is another just as good a bill. I give this to you in return for the bill which was paid to you this afternoon." He thrust the new bill toward Orme, and waved his other hand rhetorically.

"That, and that none, is my business with you, dear sir."

Orme's hand went to his pocket. The visitor watched the motion eagerly, and a grimace of disappointment contracted his features when the hand came forth, holding a single case.

"Have one," Orme urged. In his anxiety the little man almost danced. "But, sir," he broke forth, "I am in desperate hurry. I must meet a friend. I must catch a train."

"One moment," interrupted Orme. "I can't very well give up that bill until I know a little better what it means. You will have to show me that you are entitled to it—and—"

He smiled—"meantime you'd better smoke."

Senior Portol sighed. "I can assure you of my honesty of purpose, sir," he said. "I cannot tell you about it. I have not the time. Also, it is not my secret. This bill, sir, is just as good as the other one."

"Very likely," said Orme dryly. He was wondering whether this was some new counterfeiting dodge. How easily most persons could be induced to make a mistake!

Counterfeiting, however, would hardly work by so picturesque and judicious a method, unless he were carefully disguised—hardly even then. Was Senior Portol disguised? Orme looked at him more closely. No, he could see where the roots of the coarse black hair joined the scalp. And there was not the least evidence of make-up on the face. Nevertheless, Orme did not feel warranted in giving up the marked bill without a definite explanation. The little man was "a comely figure, but his bizarre exterior might conceal a dangerous plot. He might be a thief, an anarchist, anything."

"Please, my dear sir, please do not add to my already very great anxiety," pleaded the visitor.

Orme spoke more decisively. "You are a stranger, Senior Portol. I don't know what all this mystery conceals, but I can't give out that bill unless I know more about it—and I won't."

He added, as he saw Senior Portol open his mouth for further pleading.

"Very well," sighed the little man. He hesitated for an instant, then added: "I do not blame you for insisting, and I suppose I must say to you everything that you demand. No, I do not smoke the cigar, please. But if you do not object—" He produced a square of cigarette paper and some tobacco from a silver-mounted pouch, and deftly rolled a cigarette with one hand, accepting a match from Orme with the other. Closing his eyes, he inhaled the smoke deeply, breathing it out through his nostrils.

"Well," he hesitated, his eyes roving about the room as if in search of something—"Well, I will explain to you why I want the bill."

Orme lighted a cigar and set himself to hear the story. Senior Portol drew a second handkerchief from his pocket and mopped his damp brow.

"You must know, my very dear sir," he began, "that I come from a country which is very rich in the resources of nature. In the unworked interior are very great mineral deposits which are little known, and since the day when the great Vega made the first exploration there has been the belief that the Urinaba mountains hide a great wealth in gold. Many men for three hundred years have risked their most precious lives to go look for it. But they have not found it. No, my dear sir, they have not found it until—"

He paused, and he had been attacked by death while he was on a business trip.

"Filled with the heartbroken hope to see him once more before he died, I went even as I was, to a tract and made all haste to his bedside."

"What was his name?" asked Orme. "Lopez," replied Senior Portol promptly; and Orme knew that the answer might as well have been Smith. But the little man returned quickly to his story.

"My friend had no strength left. He was, oh, so weak that I went to see him. But he sent the doctor and the priest out of the room, and then—and then he whispered in my ear a secret. He had discovered rich gold in the Urinaba country. He had been trying to earn money to go back and dig up the gold. But, alas! now he was dying, and he wished to give the secret to me, his old friend."

"Tears streamed on my cheek," Senior Portol's eyes filled, seemingly at the remembrance. "But I took out my fountain pen to write down the directions he wished to give. So—this was the pen." He produced a gold-mounted tube from his waistcoat.

"I searched my pockets for a piece of paper. None could I discover. There was no time to be lost, for my friend was growing weaker, oh, very fast. In desperation I took a five-dollar bill, and wrote upon it the directions he gave me for finding the gold. Even as I finished it, dear Lopez breathed his last breath."

Orme puffed at his cigar. "So the bill carries directions for finding a rich deposit in the Urinaba mountains?"

"Yes, my dear sir. But you would not rob me of it. You could not understand the directions."

"Oh, no," Orme laughed. "I have no interest in South American gold mines."

"Then accept this fresh bill," implored Senior Portol, "and give me back the one I gave you."

Orme hesitated. "A moment more," he said. "Tell me, how did you lose possession of the marked bill?"

GREAT GAME IS PLAYED AT LAYTON.

Juniors of That Place and Perryopolis Battle for Eight Innings.

THE ERRORS ARE 17 TO 10

Description of the Contest by The Courier's Correspondent Is a Literary Masterpiece—Perry Made Only 17 Errors.

John C. Drum, correspondent of The Courier at Layton, favors the office with an account of the most remarkable baseball game ever played in this section. The contest rivals in unusual features those thrilling annual struggles between the Round Pipes and Square Pipes of the National Tubo Works at McKeesport, where runs are as thick as flies about a molasses barrel. Even more remarkable than the game is the account of the enigma by the rising young sporting editor who preserved for future generations the history of the game. Here it is:

The Perryopolis Juniors' Baseball team contested with the Layton Juniors with a score of ten to fifteen. Both teams need some practice. Both made six hits but Layton only made 10 errors. Perryopolis had 17. Following the game the Layton team held a meeting and elected officers. They were elected: Edwin Hamilton, Mgr. and Secretary; Lay Thompson, Captain; John Thompson, Coach; P. J. Morrison, Treasurer.

A feature of the game was the pitching of Thompson. No batter on either side was able to get on base.

Correspondent Drum then supplies a rather incomplete but original box score. From it are gleaned some interesting facts. Chick, who valiantly covered first base for Perry had one hit and five errors. Miller of Layton was hit three times by pitched balls. Cortese at second and Lechiller at short, both for Perry, had three errors each. Eight bases were stolen.

Just how the two teams were retired, if none of the batters had any putouts, and why the contest ended in the eighth inning are left to the vivid imagination of the reader. The only questions are how Coach Thompson will escape from Duxinoff if he tries to teach the Layton Juniors baseball, and why a policeman was not elected to make some putouts. Perry Juniors evidently do not need a coach. They need a new team. Incidentally both teams might sign a few players who can field better and make a putout now and then.

The players are young, however, and there may be a few Cobbs and Wagners in the outfit. In yesterday's game, however, it must be confessed that the playing of each side bore a striking resemblance to some of the stunts pulled off on an unassuming public by the Pirates lately.

ITCHING IRRITATION. Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Cured by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble, itching, redness, or any other trouble, you should know that the cure is at hand. It is necessary to use some disinfecting and greasy ointment. Try Hottel's, a pure and simple skin food, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so clean that it does not soil the skin.

Its power to instantly relieve any irritation of the skin and make it soft, white and beautiful is almost miraculous.

Not only are minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, blemishes, etc., quickly cured, but the worst skin or cancer of skin phlegm or eczema are cleansed and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try Hottel's at small expense A. A. Clarke is selling a liberal sized jar at 25c and in addition guarantees to refund the money if the treatment does not cure all that is claimed for it. Larger size 50 cents.

Improvement in the Weather; Some Cooler

There was a slight improvement in the weather yesterday when the temperature was some degrees lower than the high spots of the past week. The temperature started out to find the high spots once more, although it is hardly likely to become oppressively hot. A gentle breeze fanned the air and cooled to a considerable degree.

The weather forecast today predicts unsettled weather with local thunder showers tonight or Friday. This prediction comes after the sky has cleared off. Last night the sky did not hold a cloud with this morning it was remarkably clear.

The temperature was 65 at 9 o'clock, the lowest mark in some weeks past. Last evening it was 78, also lower than usual. The rise rose over night from 17 to 19 feet.

The Y. M. C. A. Boys Are Having Fine Outing.

Special to The Courier

CAMP MOHICAN, July 14.—Owing to the beautiful weather yesterday and today, camp life has been enjoyed to the fullest possible extent. Monday morning immediately after breakfast the boys, carrying their traps and shovels, etc., in hand made a dash for the baseball diamond where everyone worked like beavers to put the field into the best possible condition for playing.

After safely stowing away a most satisfying dinner, the boys then attacked the tennis court which was greatly in need of repair.

After this was finished the boys enjoyed a cool plunge in the swimming hole. After resting for several pictures the boys indulged in an excellent game of football. After a most interesting game with as much bustle as possible the boys made a break for the store, where vast quantities of cool, sparkling and delicious pop poured by the quart down the spacious throats of the youngsters. Great sport that.

During a stroll over the mountains the two Fritzes, Agnife and Ruth, succeeded in capturing a small mountain rattler about a foot long, which though so young as to have neither fangs nor rattles exhibited a savage fighting spirit, striking at everything that came within a radius of six inches. With the single exception of a small copperhead which made a rapid retreat, this is the only dangerous variety seen this year so no alarm need be felt on that score.

Owing to the numerous free concerts "which disturbed their peaceful slumbers" given by the frogs which occupied the mid which the advance detail made the first night, Secretary Chase made the announcement at the breakfast table that a reward of 10 cents would be given for every frog captured. A reward of 25 cents was offered for recognized lizards.

The boys could be seen busily manufacturing frog spears. But a result of the large number of hunters very few frogs were brought in. It is sincerely hoped by every member of the camp that the next frog crusade will be an entire success.

Tuberculosis Treatment vs. Tuberculosis Cure.

There is a vast difference between a treatment and a cure. Sanatoriums, Dietetic and Climatic treatment, also beneficial in a way. They "bolster up" But often give consumptives the impression that he is cured, while the disease has really been smothering, and soon gains headway again, developing more rapidly. Nature herself tries to heal, but the disease germs develop faster than Nature can work, and the result is constantly the total destruction of the lungs.

Consumptives first think of sanatoriums making a cure. In the public mind also that seems to be the one method. Yet how many people do you know who have been permanently cured by sanatorium treatment? Scientists actually fail to enlighten on this point. Medicine as a cure for Tuberculosis is frequently denied by physicians and consumptives themselves, but when the makers of Jackson's Alternative and Irrefutable Testimonial and effluvia made by those who have been cured, few reasonable, sound-minded consumptives will refuse to listen to the new call of health and happiness that is made by Jackson's Alternative.

These cured people were skeptical. Everyone is that if your present treatment is not curing you it is ineffective. No. The disease must be eradicated utterly.

Find out what Jackson's Alternative may do for you. We refer you to clergymen, priests, nuns—God's ministers to the sick—those who would not be bought for any money.

Jackson's Alternative has cured many cases of tuberculosis that sanatoriums had pronounced absolutely incurable. Could more be said?

Jackson's Alternative is good for all "Wet and Lung trouble," and is on sale in Connelville by W. A. Belkley and in Dunbar by Harry McGibbons, Druggists. It can also be obtained at any drug store. Ask for Booklet of Cured Cases or write for Evidence to the Jackson Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

The Taylor Stock Company Tonight. Yesterday's two performances at the Yonkers theatre by the Taylor Stock Company were well attended. "Pakey Accused" was the bill and it proved a most enjoyable performance and in the hands of the Taylor company it was well acted and neatly staged. Splendid opportunities in the play are given to Harry Moore, Miss Leslie Warren Burrows and John McKenna in which they appeared to excellent advantage and was given good support by the balance of the cast in the minor roles. The vaudeville was changed and proved entertaining. The ladies at the performance last evening received handsome souvenirs from the management. The same play is on for the performance tonight and should draw out a large audience. For the balance of the week and mature Saturday the five-act vaudeville drama, "The Vampire" with Harry Moore as the Jew detective, will be the offering with an entire change of vaudeville. The company will put on next week four plays, "The Blind Girl," "In the Rockies," "Fast Lynne" and "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Both Games Were Full of Thrills From Start to Finish—Barrie's Work in Middle For Trotter a Feature—Leisenring Hits Hard.

Two good games were played by the Pick teams last evening, Trotter and Davidson going 10 innings to no decision and Leisenring defeating Morgan 1 to 2 in the regulation distance. The Trotter-Davidson game was to have been seven innings but until darkness ended the contest in the tenth neither side had gained an advantage over the other. Barrie's work in middle field for Trotter was a feature. He had three thrilling catches and two assists. Both teams scored two runs in the tenth. A FACT PROVEN

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.
